HILL DOWNED BY SILVER MEN

Senator Daniels Chosen In His Place.

THE VOTE STOOD DANIELS, 552; HILL, 343.

Two Hours Of Confusion Preceded the Taking Of the Vote—Eastern Men Appealed In Vain For Consideration On the Floor Of the Convention Cheers and Hisses.

Chicago, July 7.—The convention assembled slowly, the weather being clear and fine. Immense crowds made the admission slow. It was whispered very early that the gold men's programme was to vote solid for Pattison or blank and keep silent on the platform.

A count showed thirteen candidates in the field, six of whom are to be formally presented.

At 12:27 Hill entered amid great cheering.

The convention was called to order at 12:50 p. m. Chairman Harrity reported Hill for temporary chairman. Great cheering followed all over the hall.

SENATOR DANIEL.

Clayton, of Alabama, rose to move that Daniels' name be substituted for Hill's. The cheering was tremendous.

The roll of states was demanded on Clayton's motion to substitute Daniels for Hill, and a hot debate ensued, each mention of Hill or Daniels eliciting cheers.

New Jersey presented a demand for the choice of Hill.

Waller of Connecticut advocated the choice of Hill. He suggested Hill for temporary chairman and Daniels for permanent, but said he could stand any candidate convention might nominate. The gold men expected to stay but appealed for courtesy and fair treatment and the upholding of democratic precedents. Waller declared that if Hill was turned down eastern democrats would fight in convention and elsewhere. Cheering and hissing broke out in the hall. Thomas of Colorado spoke advocating the choice of Daniels. He said the convention should carry out the wishes of a large majority of the convention and select Daniels, but had no desire to prevent discussion.

Waller, of Alabama, spoke, advocating the choice of Daniels. Tarpey, of California, also advocated the choice of Daniels.

Fellows, of New York, took the stand at 1:50, to advocate the choice of Hill. Great cheering greeted him. He appealed to the convention not to violate precedents and trample on the rights of the minority, his plea being well received. He asked why the convention should be willing to accept all the rest of the recommendations of a majority of the national committee and turn a democrat like David Bennett Hill, down. A reference by Fellows to President Cleveland was cheered over the hall. The cheers for Cleveland were long continued, many of the audience being on their feet.

Marston, of Louisiana, spoke in advocacy of the choice of Daniels. The confusion grew. Cries of Hill and Daniels drowned the voice of the speaker, who was greatly excited. At 2:20 Marston had to sit down on account of the uproar. Chairman Harrity warned the convention to keep quiet. Marston resumed but there was still much confusion. At 2:25 Marston retired amid cheers.

Duncan, of Texas, took the floor to advocate the choice of Daniels.

Ladd, of Illinois, advocated the choice of Daniels, saying:

"If Hill made a speech it would keep the party explaining until election.'

St. Clair of West Virginia, advocated Hill, his reference to free coinage of silver being loudly cheered. He said:

"If silver men are afraid to have the question discussed by men like Hill, then how will it bear general discussion outside?"

Clayton, of Alabama, advocated the choice of Daniels, and his reference to Hill's Elmira silver speech aroused cheers and laughter.

At 2:49 the call of states was ordered on the motion that the name of Daniels be substituted for Hill.

Down to and including Iowa there were in favor of the motion 200; against it, 26

The vote resulted in favor of substituting Daniels for Hill. It stood 552 to 343, or including the territories: Ayes 554; noes 345.

The announcement of the vote caused great cheering throughout the hall. Daniels received a great ovation and was escorted to the chair amid cheers and confusion. There were cheers for Harrity for the fairness in which he presided as chairman of the national committee.

In opening his speech Chairman Daniels referred to Hill as "the great senator." The reference was greeted by cheers. Daniels said the country would not misconstrue the action of the convention. His speech, a flowery one, was listened to with great attention.

HILL CHOSEN BY THE COMMITTEE

Some Important Contests Settled By The National Party Tribunal.

Chicago, July 7.—Yesterday brought still further gains to the Bland boom. The acquisition of Illinois, with the prospect of eventually getting Tennessee and California into the fold, cheered the supporters of the Missouri candidate, and the evening was celebrated with a gorgeous procession, a display of fireworks and any amount of enthusiasm on behalf of "Silver Dick."

Last night Bland's lieutenants were claiming 438 votes on the second ballot, not counting Virginia. They assume that as soon as the strength of the Bland sentiment in the western states is shown the southern states which heretofore have been in doubt will swing into line, and that while Kentucky, for instance, may cast her first vote for Blackburn and Oregon may give hers to Pennoyer, these and most of the western and southern states which are uninstructed will promptly get in line with the Bland movement on the second ballot.

The result of the day's work was enough to convince the Bland men that Bland stands a very fair show of getting on the second ballot a majority of the convention, but much less than the two-thirds necessary to a nomination. The opponents of Bland are firm in insisting that this is all he ever will get, and that if he fails on the second ballot he will be the victim of a knotty deadlock which will result in the nomination of some other man—very likely a "dark horse." It is pointed out that many of the western delegates who have a deep-seated partiality for Teller are voting for Bland only because there is no other available out-and-out silver man at hand and that some of the southern states are by no means confident as to the political influences which are favoring Bland.

The decisive gain made by the Bland movement during the day was the acquisition of the Illinois delegation, which increases the roll of his delegates by forty-eight votes. Following this was the declaration of some of the Tennessee men that instead of being evenly divided their delegation had a slight leaning toward Bland in preference to Boies. This, and the probability that if Senator White's name is not to be considered Califorina will be recorded for Bland on the first ballot, has given the Missouri people the basis for their optimistic estimate. With the votes they expect to gain after certain states have cast a complimentary first ballot for favorite sons, this is about the way in which Senator Farris of Lebanon and the other of Bland's aides figure their vote on the second ballot: Alabama, 22; Arkansas, 16; California, 18; Colorado, 8; Georgia, 26; Idaho, 6; Illinois, 48; Kansas, 20; Kentucky, 26; Louisiana, 16; Mississippi, 18; Missouri, 34; Montana, 6; Nebraska, 16; North Carolina, 23; Oregon, 8; South Carolina, 18; Tennessee, 24; Texas, 30; Utah, 6; Washington, 8; West Virginia, 12; Wyoming, 6; Arizonia, 6; New Mexico, 6; Indian Territory, 6; Oklahoma Territory, 6; total 438.

This list presents about the extreme of the Bland men's claim. Several of the southern state delegations included in it have expressed no preference in the matter, and are not willing to concede that they have any preference for Bland over Boies or any other candidate. Taking out the states which are still in the doubtful column, and eliminating those which are expected to abandon their instructions after a first ballot, the roster of Bland men comes down more nearly toward the figures of Sunday, increased by the votes of Illinois and probably California and Tennessee. None of the anti-Bland men are willing to concede him much over 330 votes on the initial ballot.

SILVER MEN COUNT VOTES.

After State Organizations, White Metal Leaders Claim 590 Delegates.

Chicago, July 7.—The silver men learned their organized strength at midnight. At that hour they claimed to have 590 votes for silver on the roll as made up by the national committee, and which will be cast for Senator Daniel of Virginia for temporary chairman.

A resolution was adopted in the conference calling upon every free silver delegate to the convention to vote for Senator Daniel for temporary chairman. A call was issued requesting every silver man to be in his seat in the convention hall at 11 o'clock this morning, and then the conference adjourned until 9:30 o'clock this morning.

The full silver strength cannot be secured for Daniel on account of the personal influence of Senator Hill. Many silver delegates say they will not vote to turn down their old friend. The Oregon delegation, which is solid for silver, declared it would do anything except vote against Hill. The roll of the national committee also gives sixteen votes from Nebraska to gold, and it is on this basis that the silver men were organizing.

The sub-committee of the silverites had done its best to get Senator White of California to take the temporary chairmanship, and had been forced to notify the silver men individually that they had failed on account of the unfortunate talk the senator had with Senator Hill.

Senator White was then quietly dropped by the wayside, and the talk ran to the selection of another man acceptable to the silver men. The name of Senator Daniel of Virginia happened to be presented and at once it was discovered that he was the choice of the leaders. They announced that he was the most acceptable man in the minds of a majority of the silver men on the national committee, and would make a first-rate chairman. The next thing on the program was the question of organization. Reports were received from the twenty-five or twenty-six states represented and they were found to be unanimously in favor of the scheme of organization. All the delegates had appointed their accredited representatives and given them power to act.

The organization showed signs of weakness when the advisability of holding a presidential caucus for all the delegates was discussed. The scheme of organization had for its basis the avoiding of a general caucus of the silver delegates by a meeting of the chairmen of the delegations. It was expected that much wrangling could thus be avoided.

A vote showed the majority of the delegates who had made up their minds were not willing to forego the pleasure of putting in a public word for their choice. The members of the committee present represented over 600 delegates. Of these 432 votes were polled when the question was put. Those favoring a caucus numbered 128, those opposed numbered 80, and the balance was put down as doubtful.

It was seen that the delegations were fighting shy of an expression on the question, and the committee decided to let the matter go over until 9 o'clock in order that a thorough canvass of the delegates might be made.

The American silver committee held a meeting at its headquarters in Auditorium Annex last night and took a new tack on the silver question. Several of the Teller boomers attended the meeting, and at the close of several hours' discussion decided Teller was unavailable and that in view of the situation they considered Sibley the candidate best fitted to unite all the silver forces. A resolution complimenting Teller but recommending Sibley's nominaton was passed and the meeting then adjourned.

WANT HILL AND WHITNEY TO BOLT.

Gold Leaders Urged to Work for the Nomination of an Anti-Silver Ticket.

Chicago, July 7.—Senator David B. Hill and William C. Whitney were bombarded with elegrams yesterday from their New York constituents demanding that they should bolt today's convention and exert themselves in the direction of an independent anti-silver national ticket. These telegrams came from all parts of the east to the two and their contents infected the other recognized leaders of the gold forces anti-silver men. In almost every anti-silver headquarters there was a great deal of discussion over the advisability of putting up a ticket in opposition to the one nominated at the convention, which will be called today.

Mr. Whitney and Mr. Hill are not talking much of their actions in this convention. Mr. Whitney is bending his energies to combining the gold delegates so that they will be a unit on every proposition, and it was admitted by the gold men yesterday that they had absolutely no plans for the gold-standard delegates so that they can be used in full force as the occasion requires in the convention. It is said that the real planning will begin at tonight's caucus of the sound-money men, at which time it is expected the gold leaders will have arrived at some understanding as to the handling of the minority forces.

The gold men were encouraged by the assertion of Gov. Altgeld, who is regarded by many as the leader of the silver men, that if the convention was delayed for four days the silver men would be defeated. Some instantly began working to prolong the convention, but the majority of the gold men said that the silver men, disorganized as they appear to be, were all going in the same direction, and would ultimately gather into one force.

Mr. Whitney and Mr. Hill are said to be very much embarrassed by the demands they are receiving from the east. Neither wants to bolt the convention. Both, it is said, prefer to remain in the convention, take what insults the silver men see fit to heap on them, and in return preserve the organization and its control in the east.

The men who are foremost in the third-ticket movement say they have thoroughly considered the matter, and that the plan is the only one which gives any promise of the preservation of the democratic party. They argue that while it would probably be the best way to defeat free silver by only having one candidate against McKinley and the gold platform upon which he is running, yet they do not know they can control the vote of the great mass of the anti-silver democrats to this extent. They say that the leaders may vote for McKinley, but the old-time democrat will either stay at home or smother his convictions on the money question and support the silver nominee and platform. The third-ticket men are also arguing that it will be bad for the future of the party to allow the democrats to begin voting the republican ticket.

Chicago, July 7.—The Indiana delegates met at their headquarters Monday and decided to defer the election of the national committeeman to take Secretary Sheerin's place until after the nominations had been made. The meeting was exceedingly harmonious, and Senator Turpie was chosen as the member from Indiana to represent the state at the silver conference.

BLAND ON THE SECOND BALLOT

Silver Men Confident That Their Victory Cannot Be Delayed

Chicago, July 7.—The national democratic committe selected Senator David Bennett Hill as the temporary chairman of the convention over Senator John W. Daniel, who was supported by the silver national committeemen. It was a close fight in the national committee. Before the meeting Chairman Harrity, the leader of the gold committeemen, was positive that there would be a majority of 9 in the committee for the yellow metal, but nine proxies put in an appearance and the gold men entered the fray with but four votes more than their adversaries.

In the selection of Mr. Hill it is said that the gold men of the committee acted in accordance with the instructions of the gold leaders, which were to the effect that the silver men should be given a chance to make a fight against the gold temporary chaiamrn and to throw out of the convention the gold delegates from Nebraska and Michigan, who were seated by the national committee yesterday. By the time the silver men get ready to act on the contested delegates it is said the gold men will have their forces organized in such a manner that they will be able to put up the strongest fight possible against the free-silverites.

Early in the day Senator Turpie and Senator Jones called on the committee and presented the claims of the silver majority in the convention for the temporary chairman. They set forth that the matter had been discussed at length by the silver leaders and that it had unanimously decided that a man whose views were in keeping with those of the majority of the delegates should be selected as temporary chairman. They offered no name and mentioned no candidates, even incidentally, in their address to the committee.

After the contests had been settled William F. Sheehan of New York moved that the committee proceed to select a temporary chairman of the convention. The motion prevailed, and Mr. Sheehan placed the name of Senator Hill before the meeting. Henry D. Clayton of Alabama nominated Senator Daniel of Virginia, and Chairman Harrity instructed Secretary Sheerin to call the roll. The result was announced —Hill 27 and Daniel 24. Following are the members of the national committee who voted for Mr. Hill as temporary chairman: Carlos French, Connecticut; L. C. Vandergrift, Delaware; Ben T. Cable, Illinois; S. P. Sheerin, Indiana; J. J. Richardson, Iowa; Thomas H. Sherley, Kentucky; A. P. Gorman, Maryland; L. V. Boughman, proxy; Josiah Quincy, Massachusetts; M. Doran, Minnesota; D. W. Lawler, proxy; C. B. Howry, Mississippi; John G. Prather, Missouri; Tobias Castor, Nebraska; A. W. Sulloway, New Haven; Milles Ross, New Jersey; J. T. Smith, proxy; W. F. Sheehan, New York; Calvin Brice, O. George B. Gilliland, proxy; E. D. McKee, Oregon; Fred V. Holman, proxy; W. F. Harrity, Pennsylvania; Samuel R. Honey, Rhode Island; R. B. Comstock, proxy; James M. Woods, South Dakota; Holmes Cummins, Tennessee; O. T. Holt, Texas; B. B. Smalley, Vermont; H. C. Wallace, Washington, John Sheridan, West Virginia; E. C Wall, Wisconsin; W. F. Vilas, proxy; A. L. Delaney, Alaska.

The following supported Senator Daniel for temporary chairman: Henry D. Clayton, Ala.; U. M. Rose, Ark., T. V. McCrea, proxy; M. F. Tarpey, Cal.; Charles S. Thomas, Col.; Samuel Pasco, Fla.; Clark Howell, Ga.; F. W. Beane, Idaho, B. N. Hilliard, proxy; C. W. Blair, Kas.; Arthur Sewall, Me.; D. J. Campau, Mich.; A. J. Davidson, Mont.; R. P. Keating, Nev.; M. W. Ransom, N. C.; W. C. Leistikow, N. D.; M. L. Donaldson, S. C.; S. A. Merritt, Utah; J. Taylor Ellyson, Va.; W. L. Kuykendall, Wyo.; C. M. Shannon, Arizona; J. L. Norris, D. of C.; H. B. Ferguson, N. M.; T. M. Richardson, O. T.; R. L. Owen, I. T.

The gold men were still applauding when C. S Thomas of Colorado arose and said he would present the name of a man in accord with the views of the majority of the delegates; that he would follow out the course announced by the silver men some time before, and that he felt justified in doing this because he knew the members of the national committee were aware that their choice would not be satisfactory to the majority of the convention.

Mr. Sheehan called attention to the fact that four years ago the national committee had defeated the Cleveland forces and placed Mr. Owens of Kentucky in the chair, and that the convention did not try to reject Mr. Owens. He warned the silver men that they would lose the support of many men who are now for silver, but who hold close to the traditions of their party.

Mr. Whitney is very much disappointed at the decision of several of the members of the national committee, who have heretofore been counted as gold advocates, to support Senator Daniel for temporary chairman. Mr. Whitney last night said: "The feature of the day has been the remarkable meeting of the national committee and their rather unlooked-for action. Mr. Sheehan, our national committeeman, outgeneraled the silver people at every point, and demonstrated their utter lack of parliamentary knowledge. I am told that the committee in the contests had no alternative but to decide with Mr. Sheehan as to the contests. I believe we have made great progress in our cause and that the silver leaders fear us."

S. P. Sheerin of Indiana was selected as temporary secretary, and he named Leopold Strauss of Alabama as assistant secretary at the request of Committeeman Clayton.

Immediately after calling the convention to order, Mr. Harrity said, after the meeting adjourned, he would present the Rev. Ernest M. Stires, who would offer the invocation. Then he would present the name of D. B. Hill of New York as temporary chairman. Then he will recognize either Mr. Thomas or Mr. Clayton, who will present on behalf of the minority in the committee the name of Sen. John W. Daniel, and the first open fight between the silver and gold delegates of the convention will begin. After this fight has been decided the temporary chairman selected will deliver his address, after which the members of the various standing committees selected at the state caucus yesterday will be sent up. Then the convention will adjourn, pending the report of the committee on credentials and permanent organization. The committee on resolutions is expected to sonsume considerable time.

The first contest taken up was that of the Seventh Indiana district. Hon. John P. Frenzel, a gold men, was contesting the seat of the delegates nominated by what is known as the "Charles E. Cooper convention." The silver delegates were placed on the temporary roll, the committee deciding the contest on the ground that the state was for silver, and there was no cause for complaint from the gold men.

When Nebraska was reached there was a conflict which resulted in the defeat of the silver delegation, led by William J. Bryan, by the same vote by which David B. Hill was selected as temporary chairman.

Then the much-talked-of Michigan contest was called. It was brought out that the national committee as early as 1856 had settled contests in making up the temporary roll, and that as late as 1892 the committee on credentials had cited the report of the national committee in deciding a contest. The motion was then made to take up the hearing of the contest and it prevailed by a vote of 47 to 1, Mr. Campau alone voting in the negative. Then Mr. Stevenson, chairman of the Michigan gold delegation detailed the manner in which the gold was selected and the bolt that resulted in the selection of the silver delegation. He claimed that only one-third of the delegates left with the the silver leaders. When the silver men were called upon to give their side of the case Mr. Campau announced that he had not prepared for any hearing before the committee. He said he would present no witnesses and make no contest before the body.

Mr. Thomas of Colorado, a silver leader, moved that the gold delegates from Michigan be seated and the motion was adopted by the same vote as that to proceed with the contest.

The last contests taken up was that of the Seventeenth Ohio district, where the gold men were contesting the seats of the silver delegates. The silver men were seated in the same manner as those of Indiana.

It is said that the contest in the convention over the temporary chairman will not show the real strength of the silver men. Many of the silver delegates, it is said, will vote for Mr. Hill as temporary chairman becauce of their fondness for the New York senator, although they differ with him in his financial views.

ILLINOIS FOR BLAND.

The State Delegation Will Give Him Their Support.

Chicago, July 7.—Illinois forty-egiht votes will be cast for Richard P. Bland for president. The delegation so decided Monday in a caucus held at Illinois headquarters at the Sherman house. It required all the tact and firmness that Governor Altgeld and

YALE BEATEN BY LEANDER

Americans Lose the Great Henley Race.

THEY FINISH A LENGTH AND A HALF BEHIND.

The Race a Hot One From Start to Finish, and the Sons of Old Eli Made a Better Showing Than Trainer Bob Cooke Expected Last Evening—New College the Probable Winner.

Henley, July 7.—Yale was beaten by the Leander crew in the race for the Grand Challenge cup today. The Americans finished a length and a half behind their English competitors. Leanders rowed the faster stroke, although the Yale men made a better race than Trainer Bob Cooke expected last night. The time was 7:33¼. Leander is reckoned as the next to New College in speed, and even had Yale won today, the race against New on Friday would have tried the visitors sorely.

STEEL BRIDGES SWEPT AWAY.

Waterspout Does Great Damage in West Virginia—Railroads Suffer

Wheeling, W. Va., July 7.—Another waterspout in the interior of Ohio and Marshall counties Monday caused great loss to property and a suspension of railroad traffic out of Wheeling on two railroads. The various creeks, including Big and Little Wheeling creeks, Little Grave creek, Jim's run, on the West Virginia side of the river, and Wheeling creek, Wegee creek and other tributaries on the Ohio side, sent out an immense amount of water. The water was speedily out of banks. Farm houses were washed from foundations, stock drowned, growing crops destroyed and many narrow escapes from death in the raging waters.

Twelve miles below the city at Moundsville the damage was quite severe. The steel bridges of the Ohio river and Baltimore & Ohio road were carried away, the current being so swift that the Ohio river bridge was sent to the middle of the Ohio. Up Little Grove creek a hotel in the oil field was carried off its foundations, but no lives were lost. The Baltimore & Ohio is blocked from Wheeling to Grafton, and is sending its east-bound passenger trains by the way of Pittsburg. The loss to the two railroads named is about $20,000.

On Pipe creek, in Ohio, opposite Moundsville, two persons lost their lives. The home of John Berry was washed down the creek into the river and Mrs. Berry and a daughter were drowned. Mr. Berry had a narrow escape.

Information was received late at night of another fatality. The 8-year-old daughter of Porter Richie, living on Turkey run, was drowned early this morning. The house was swept away and the child was caught in the wreckage and killed.

Columbus, O., July 7.—A cloudburst at Wegee creek, near Bellaire, Monday drowned James Berey, wife and child and destroyed the Bellaire, Zanesville & Cincinnati railroad bridge, a large trestle on the Pittsburg & Ohio Valley railroad, a Presbyterian church and other buildings.

SAY BLAND'S STAR WILL WANE.

Boies' Managers Counting on Snatching Success from Seeming Defeat.

Chicago, July 7.—The Boies men worked hard all day yesterday to bring order out of chaos. They are making a pre-convention campaign of brotherly love, refusing at every opportunity to fight any other candidate in the field. They expect the convention to be prolonged almost beyond precedent, and chiefly upon this lay confident hopes of the ultimate success of Governor Boies. The policy of not antagonizing the present supporters of any man they believe will win them many friends should a break from Bland be forced. In this event, having made no enemies, they expect a very large majority to go for the Iowan. They say they have at least made no enemies by the move and have engendered no hard feeling towards their man at this time, when friends and foes, even in the open, can hardly be told apart.

Ex-Congressman Joseph C. Sibley of Pennsylvania has opened headquarters at the Auditorium, and announced himself as a candidate for the presidency in a free-silver platform. His friends have received assurance from some of the silver leaders that if Pennsylvania will drop Pattison and vote for Sibley the state can name the choice of the convention. Gen. Warner, president of the Bimetallic leaugue, has assured Mr. Sibley of his support, and the belief is strong that if the silverites decide to select an Eastern man for either first or second place on the ticket they will unite on Sibley. It is also said that Mr. Sibley will be supported by the silver senators from the northwest.

A Cheap Dear.

Mrs. Spendfast—I felt dreadfully cheap as I stood at the altar.

Mr. Spendfast—Oh, that was merely a disordered imagination.

CRISP NOTES FROM EVANSVILLE.

Salvationists On Deck--Damage Suit Threatened--Mrs. Greatsinger's Death.

Evansville, July 7—The remains of Mrs. Dan Greatsinger were brought here Sunday evening for burial. Her death occurred at the home of her brother, Attorney John Clifford of Madison, Friday morning. Mrs. Greatsinger has lived in this vicinity nearly all her life, being born in the town of Magnolia, December, 1850, and was in the millinery business in this city for a number of years. For three years she was in the millinery and dressmaking business in Janesville, but for the past few weeks on account of failing health she has been with her brother in Madison. She was a prominent member of the Home Forum, W. R. C. and Daughters of Rebecca Lodges. A larger crowd of friends and relatives never assembled at the depot to escort the remains to the cemetery than on Sunday evening, and each brought a beautiful design or bouquet of flowers, so that the coffin was completely covered. Mrs. Greatsinger leaves a husband besides several brothers and sisters. Fred L. Janes, a graduate this year from the university has bought out Allen W. Dibble in the law, collection and insurance business, and will occupy the same office over Ballard's jewelry store. Mr. Dibble will continue in the real estate business. A few weeks ago work was begun repairing Main street bridge, and for a week or so progressed rapidly. Since then it has been left unfinished and in a very dangerous condition. The walk for some distance on the south side has been removed and in some cases the embankment is already caving in. The city will have damages to pay if it is not repaired immediately. The Salvation Army arrived from Janesville, Friday, and are now holding meetings in their tents, in the rear of the M. E. church. A fair-sized audience is in attendance every evening, but they are not likely to draw many converts among our citizens. Their principal cry is "food and money." One of the young women left last Monday night for Michigan, where her mother is lying at the point of death. The ice cream social held at the Methodist church, Thursday night, was a success financially and socially. The grounds were beautifully decorated with Japanese lanterns, and electric lights were also strung around the lawn, and Prof. Dickelmann's orchestra furnished excellent music for the occasion. Henry Austin read the Declaration of Independence, Rev. M. C. Miner delivered a rousing address and two ladies from the Salvation Army gave a couple of fine duets. The receipts were about $25. Mrs. Maude Luddington Coward of Waupun, returned home Monday morning, having visited her parents and friends here. Mrs. K. F. Randolph left Monday evening for Minneapolis. While in the city she will attend the wedding of her grandson, James Porter, which will take place July 8. Mr. Porter attended the seminary and High school in this city a few years ago, and we all join in wishing him a long and prosperous life. Lyman Waite, brother of Mrs. M. Scoville, of this city, and for many years an old resident east of here, in the town of Porter, died at his home in Iowa a few days ago. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hubbard and Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Snow are visiting the latter's daughter, Mrs. G. I. Jenkins, of Rockford. John Tupper and wife are up from Belvidere to spend a few weeks with relatives. Cal. Broughton's thumb, which was broken while playing ball at Durand a week or so ago, is doing as well as can be expected. Messrs. U. N. and George Slawson, with their wives, who have been doing evangelistic work in the northern part of the state, for the past few weeks, have returned home. Ray Doolittle has gone to Minnesota, to spend the summer with his brother Frank. Mrs. J. Long and daughter and Mrs. Dooley, of Chicago, have been the guests of F. M. Crow's, for a few days. METALLIC CIRCUIT TO LAKE GENEVA

LINE PLANNED BY THE TELEPHONE COMPANY.

Work Will Begin at Once—Representatives of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. Look Modestly Triumphant as They Get Details of the Failure of Rival Concerns.

Janesville is to have another long-distance metallic telephone line. This time it means direct communication with Lake Geneva. Manager Willitz has been informed that the work will begin at once and be rushed through to completion. The new line will otviate the difficulty apparent in the old circuit where so many towns were connected. The only town on the new line between here and Lake Geneva will be Whitewater. During the last few years Janesville campers have become numerous at Geneva, and this fact had considerable to do with the putting in of the new line.

Representatives of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. have an "I-told-you-so" look when they speak of the failure of the National Telephone Company exchange in Waukesha. The exchange was built a few months ago to compete with the Wisconsin Telephone company's exchange. The poles and wires have been sold at a nominal price, said to be enough to cover the outstanding indebtedness. The original investment, it is said, has proved a total loss.

ODD BITS OF LOCAL GOSSIP.

WORK in the large sand pit near the Black bridge has come to a close, and the large steam shovel has been transferred to Twin Lakes. The pit is operated by the Northwestern Railway Company, and during the past few weeks in the neighborhood of 2,500 cars have been loaded and hauled to different points in the vicinity of this city. While work in the pit was in full operation twenty-five men and five teams were kept at work.

THE police report that the Fourth was the most quiet one Janesville has seen in many years. There were few arrests and but seven drunks were stowed away.

Charles Reynolds and William Pfennig did not enter the bicycle races at Clinton on the Fourth. It was all on account of a misunderstanding. The Clinton races were advertised to be under the sanction of the L. A. W., but when the boys arrived they found that no sanction had been given. They could not race without being suspended by the league, and they and a number of Rockford riders had to look on, while men who couldn't ride a mile faster than four minutes won the pickle dishes and guitars.

THE small boy took good care of himself this year on the Fourth, and local doctors did a poor business. Accidents were scarce, and nothing more serious than powder burns were reported.

HOT WEATHER DYSPEPSIA.

Thousands Suffer From It at This Season of the Year.

Hot weather dyspepsia may be recognized by the following symptoms: Depression of spirits, heaviness and pain in the stomach after meals, loss of flesh and appetite, no desire for food, bad taste in the mouth, especially in the morning, wind in stomach and bowels, irritable disposition, nervous weakness, weariness, costiveness, headache, palpitation, heartburn. It is a mistake to treat such troubles with "tonics," "blood purifiers," "cathartics," "pills," because the whole trouble is in the stomach. It is indigestion or dyspepsia and nothing else.

All these symptoms rapidly disappear when the stomach is relieved, strengthened, and cleansed by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They should be taken after meals and a few carried in the pocket to be used whenever any pain or distress is felt in the stomach. They are prepared only for stomach troubles.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are endorsed by such physicians as Dr. Harlandson, Dr. Jennison, and Dr. Mayer, because they contain the natural digestive acids and fruit essences which when taken into the stomach cause the prompt digestion of the food before it has time to ferment and sour, which is the cause of the mischief.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are pleasant to take and unequaled for invalids, children and every person afflicted with imperfect digestion. It is safe to say they will cure any form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

Nearly all the druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized packages at 50 cents. A book on stomach troubles and thousands of testimonials sent free by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

The Latest Scientific Knowledge On Food and Digestion.

The real cause of most of our diseases is simply an inabilty to digest food. This induces thinness, weakness, loss of flesh and fat, loss of vitality, wasting away.

Loss of flesh and vitality means constant liability to sickness. Wasting away is consumption.

If getting thin is what ails you, there is only one thing to do—get fat The only way to do it is to take something which will help your stomach and stimulate it to do its work.

To eat, or even to eat with relish does not necessarily mean that one is being nourished. Strength, vitality and flesh are the true indications.

Getting thin is a sign that you need the Shaker Digestive Cordial. You would not be getting thin if you could digest your food.

The Shaker Digestive Cordial not only contains artificially digested food, but it will digest other foods in the stomach.

A single 10 cent bottle will show whether or not it is going to meet the conditions of your case, and if so, its continued use may be depended on to effect a cure. All druggists keep it in stock.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

1807—Napoleon Bonaparte and the czar of Russia concluded the peace of Tilsit.

1887—Prince Ferdinand of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha was elected prince ruler of Bulgaria. The choice of Ferdinand for the throne which Alexander of Battenberg had been forced to abdicate proved a solution of the troubles of Bulgaria. He never received the sanction of Russia, but Turkey and Austria have stood by him in every trial. Under his rule Bulgaria has prospered and been at peace except for slight internal troubles resulting from political intrigues. Ferdinand formed a marriage alliance which strengthened his relations with Austria by choosing for a bride the Princess Maria Louise, daughter of the Duke of Parma, a Spanish Bourbon related to the Austrian imperial family.

1893—Justice Samuel Blatchford of the United States supreme court died at Newport, R. I.; born 1820.

1895—Terrific storms on Lake Michigan and at Chicago; many deaths.

ROCK COUNTY INTERESTED.

Rock county democrats say they have no use for free silver—they want no law to permit the repudiation of fifty per cent of every debt, the lapsing of fifty per cent of all insurance, and the shrinkage of wages and savings bank deposits. What will they do after the Chicago convention? The best that convention can do possibly is to straddle, and a straight free coinage plank is more probable. It rests with honest democrats to say whether such a course is to be sustained; whether the name of democrat is worth more than the substance—whether "Jacksonian democracy" means submission to Altgeldian socialism.

M'KINLEY AND WISCONSIN.

Isn't it about time the stories about Major McKinley's hand in the Wisconsin campaign were retired? Major McKinley is too good a republican and too level-headed to take sides in any state canvass. Moreover, such a course would be opposed absolutely to the policy of non-interference the national committee has adopted. Major McKinley, Mr. Hanna and the committee have shown so clearly in New York and Pennsylvania what line is to be followed that there should be no room for conjecture in Wisconsin.

PLANNING FOR A BOLT.

Word comes back from Chicago that Wisconsin democrats were barely held in line yesterday. It was intended at first to prepare for a bolt by appointing no Wisconsin man to serve on the notification committee. At the last moment this plan was reconsidered, but it was declared freely that the adoption of a silver plank would be followed by a Wisconsin bolt—either in public meeting or in the recesses of the polling booths next November.

Ex-Governor Hoard's tendency to of unfavorable comment around the state. The Fort Atkinson man can be of much value to his party and to the state but not until his wire-edge has been smoothed.

Ira B. Bradford, whose great-great-great-grandfather was governor of Massachusetts from 1621 to 164[illegible], wants to try the governor business in Wisconsin.

The Hudson Star claims not to care whom the republican party in Wisconsin nominates for governor, if he is only honest, able and tactful.

The Eau Claire Leader suggests the nomination of ex-Gov. Peck by acclamation by the state democratic convention.

BASEBALL REPORT.

Games Played in the National League Yesterday.

None but a team of fighting champions would have won out such a game as Baltimore plucked out of the fire yesterday, and hardly any other team on earth than Chicago would have been unlucky enough to lose it. Boston encountered an unexpected snag yesterday in Louisville. In St. Louis New York made eight runs when the score stood a tie, and then rain necessitated a postponement. Scores of games played:

Earthquakes in Cyprus.

Genoa, July 7.—The steamer Italia has arrived here and reports that Larnica, Island of Cyprus, has been suffering from earthquake shocks since July 1. The disturbances have been increasing in violence and extend to Limasol. A general panic is said to prevail at Larnica, and the government and military authorities have been providing tents for the affrighted people. The town is deserted and the government offices, banks and telegraph offices under canvas when the steamer left Cyprus.

Gas Explosion in a Hotel.

Pittsburg, July 7.—By the explosion of natural gas at the Evergreen hotel, seven miles north of Alleghany, last evening six persons were more or less injured, three, it is feared, fatally. Those seriously hurt were:

August Stilzer, aged 38 years.
Ada Stilzer, 16 years old.
John Brooks, 30 years.

The hotel was badly damaged by the explosion, which was caused by a leaking pipe.

Peter the Great of Russia had the typical face of a Russian peasant. A short, thick nose, with large nostrils, heavy brows, full, sensual lips, wide mouth, and high cheek bones were among his most prominent features. His head was almost round.

AMERICAN ARTIST FLEES ITALY.

He Does So to Escape Conscription Into Humbert's Army.

A year ago last summer Nicola d'Ascenzo, instructor in decoration in the Pennsylvania museum and school of industrial art, at Broad and Pine streets, married Miss Myrtle D. Goodwin, teacher of design in the same institution, says the Philadelphia Times. The young couple sailed for Italy to devote two years in study of the paintings and architectural masterpieces of the land of art. The first eighteen months were spent in the cities of central and northern Italy, where the artists worked assiduously at their easels, filling a portfolio with sketches of famous churches and monasteries, national character types and the hundred and one picturesque nooks and corners which the painter discovers.

Mr. and Mrs. d'Ascenzo went to Rome about the middle of last month. They had hardly unpacked their easels and assorted their colors when the first inkling of impending trouble reached them in a letter from an uncle of Mr. d'Ascenzo, a priest in a neighboring village, informing him that officers of the government were about to conscript him for service in the army and advising him to seek an audience with the American ambassador at Rome.

Mr. d'Ascenzo acted on this advice and explained his case, he says, fully to the ambassador. Mr. d'Ascenzo came to America at 11 years of age. He is now 27. As a boy he attended the public school at Eighth and Fitzwater streets. Inclining toward art, he studied at the Academy of the Fine Arts and also at the School of Industrial Art, in which, later on, he taught.

At 20 years of age he was called, through the Italian consul, to return to Italy to serve his allotted time in the army but as he proposed to become an artist and was already absorbed in his studies he did not go. In due time he procured his naturalization papers and became a citizen of the United States. When Mr. and Mrs. d'Ascenzo started for Europe they carried with them the proper passport, emblazoned with the signature of W. Q. Gresham and the stereotyped formula, "Freely to pass and in case of need to give them all lawful aid and protection."

Mr. d'Ascenzo, although a small man, has plenty of grit. He used all his eloquence in explanations, fortifying them by displaying his official documents. Nevertheless, he says, the ambassador told him the best thing he could do was to get out of the country, for, once captured, he must serve.

The artist lost no time in shaking the dust of Rome from his feet. He threw his personal effects into a trunk, leaving his canvases with the paint still wet for a friend to collect, and hustled across the Italian boundary line into Switzerland. He left Rome on Saturday. On Sunday the guards called at the house for him.

HEADSMAN OF NAPLES.

Death in Exile of a Man Who Had Taken Many Lives.

On the little island of Ustica, forty miles from Palermo, Italy, there died the other day a man who was for years the terror of the people of Naples and the kingdom of the Two Sicilies, says the New York Tribune. He was Gaetano Impellizzeri, once the headsman under Ferdinand II. of Naples. The useless executions attributed to Impellizzeri are countless and, with the cruelty he showed, led to his denunciation by Mr. Gladstone forty years ago in the philippics which the statesman directed against Ferdinand.

The executions were only in part public; it was the executions in secret—usually at night—which gave the man his power. It was he who executed in San Francisco place, Naples, the Calabrian Agistilas Milanoque, who, on December 9, 1856, made a bayonet thrust at King Ferdinand II., and patriots innumerable became his victims.

When Garibaldi entered Naples in September, 1860, the excited populace went in search of the hated headsman, but he cared much for his own life, although he thought little of that of others, and escaped with his wife. Later he was imprisoned on the island of Ustica, where he became an officer of the fort built in those days to protect the island against pirates. He was in receipt of a pension of $5 a month—much more than he deserved. He was 81 years old at the time of his death.

Marriage and Divorce.

One of the greatest dangers which menace the home to-day are the woefully lax views of the solemnity and importance of marriage vows, and the circumstances leading up to the consummation of marriage ceremonies. These lax views, at the outset, endanger the happiness of all the future. The easy means of obtaining divorces at the present time is responsible in a measure for the light manner in which matrimony is looked uopn. The increase of divorces to the number of marriages is assuming alarming proportions. In this matter the Roman church takes a stated ground which is worthy of emulation.—Rev. R. F. Holway, Worcester, Mass.

Sales of Cooked Food.

Sales of cooked food have this winter been found profitable for providing money for charitable purposes. There seems to be a notion that food costs nothing, at least many persons who would be unwilling to contribute a dollar, or even 50 cents, will often cheerfully send a cake, a baked chicken or a salad to such a sale. It has been found that Friday and Saturday afternoons are best days for these sales. Cakes are sold in halves, or even quarters. Dainties for Sunday night tea find a ready sale. In some places the recipe for some novel and delicious dish is sold with the food.

ASKING QUESTIONS.

IT IS A WOMAN'S PREROGATIVE, AND SHE USES IT.

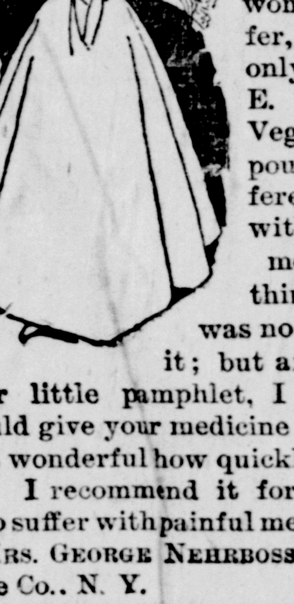
Timely Questions and Prompt Answers Have Resulted in Great Satisfaction to Many Women.

Sensitive women hate to ask their physicians those delicate questions that only a woman understands, and therefore write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., as she has ever proved their most accurate adviser, and knowing that their letters will be read and answered by one of their own sex.

Thousands of such letters have been received within a few months from those afflicted with the various forms of female diseases, and it is needless to say the answers have brought comfort and relief.

That sense of dragging in the groin, dull pains in small of back, retention, suppression of menses, bearing-down pains, headache, nervousness, blues, etc., are symptoms that require prompt measures.

The cure is, in most cases, rapid. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be promptly taken, and Mrs. Pinkham will furnish any advice required, free. Following is another letter of thanks:—



"Please accept my thanks for the little book which you have sent me. It has opened my eyes, and told me that there is a remedy for suffering women. There is no need for women to suffer, if they will only take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for years with painful menstruation, thinking there was no remedy for it; but after reading your little pamphlet, I thought I would give your medicine a trial, and it is wonderful how quickly it relieved me. I recommend it for all women who suffer with painful menstruation."

CLUMSY BURGLARS OPEN M'GEE'S SAFE

THEY GET VERY LITTLE FOR THE WORK.

Nothing Had Been Left In the Money Drawer But a Few Papers Which Were Of No Value to the Thieves—Local Talent Is Suspected.

Burglars did a bungling job at Mc Gee Brothers tobacco warehouse at 458 Holmes street and secured little for their trouble. A. E. McGee discovered evidence of their work when he tried the safe door. It had been tampered with, and the lock would not work. On leaving the office Saturday night Mr. McGee failed to lock the safe door, but the robbers did not make the discovery until after they had forced the combination.

Once inside the safe they pried open the small iron money drawer, and taking it into the basement, they broke it open. They found only a few papers, which were worthless to them.

The police were working on the case today. They suspect home talent, but the manner of entrance and exit remains a mystery.

Four acres of land upon the Mrs. J. S. Drayton estate has been leased for a term of six years, for the purpose of transforming it into an ideal summer resort. The land is situated half a mile above the Four-mile bridge, and is one of the prettiest spots on the river. It has a water frontage of fifty rods, and is situated high and dry. The erection of summer cottages will commence at once, and a new wharf will be put in next week.

"Buck" Hinrichsen possess to swing the delegation into line, but they did it after two hours' hard work, and the Bland men now claim that "Silver Dick" is as good as nominated.

On the informal ballot taken at the outset the vote of the forty-four delegates present was as follows: Bland, 27; Stevenson, 7; Boies, 4; Craig, 4; Teller, 1; Bryan, 1.

The roll on a resolution indorsing Bland for president was then called. Altgeld led off, voting for Bland, and the others got into line in a hurry. The vote stood: Yeas, 43; nay, 1.

Bland was declared the choice of the delegation for president.

The following members will represent Illinois on the convention committees: Resolutions, Judge Worthington; rules, George Fithian; credentials, A. W. Hope; permanent organization, Judge Prentiss; notification committee, Hardin Masters; national committeeman, Thomas Gahan.

Turpie Will Not Run.

Chicago, July 7.—Senator Turpie stated Monday that the mention of his name as a possible compromise presidential candidate was wholly unauthorized. "The Indiana delegation is enthusiastically loyal to Governor Matthews," said he, "and will stand by him first, last and always, in accordance with the instructions of the state convention. The reports reaching us are most encouraging, and we believe Matthews has elements of strength that will draw delegates from all sections when it is demonstrated that the other candidates lack the strength to nominate."

THEY DEMAND TELLER.

Populists Declare They Will Not Indorse Richard P. Bland.

Chicago, July 7. The populists will not indorse Richard P. Bland, even though he be nominated by the democrats on the most uncompromising 16-to-1 platform the wildest silver man can frame. Instead they will name Senator Teller for president at the national convention of the people's party, to be held at St. Louis July 22.

This message was brought to the Illinois caucus Monday by A. L. Maxwell, chairman of the state committee of the people's party. It is also the text of an address the populist leaders issued for the purpose of making a final appeal for Teller's nomination by the democrats. This address, in brief, urged Teller's nomination on the ground that if he is named in Chicago the people's party at St. Louis will indors the democratic ticket. Otherwise, there will be no alliance between the two parties.

Independent Movement for Silver.

Chicago, July 7.—An independent silver movement was inaugurated last night at a conference of the Rocky Mountain states held in the Colorado headquarters in the Palmer house. Nevada, Wyoming, Montana, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Arizona were represented. No permanent organization was effected, although R. W. Speer of Colorada acted as secretary. Some little informal discussion of the candidates was indulged in, after which it was decided to attend the silver caucus and insist that all the territories be allowed the six delegates each which they had been invited to send to the convention. The Rocky Mountain states, as a result of the conference, will, it is said, undoubtedly vote as a unit in all meetings of the silver caucus.

Bimetallic Union for Teller.

Chicago, July 7.—The National Bimetallic union, with other friends of free silver, met yesterday morning in room 510 of the Fort Dearborn building. President A. J. Warner was chairman, and general round-the-table talk occupied two hours. It was decided that the prevailing conditions called for energetic and immediate action to counteract the tendency toward a third ticket, which, the bimetallists said meant defeat for the cause of free silver. At the the same time the consensus of opinion of those in the conference was that Henry M. Teller was the best man to put forward to unite the south and west on a silver plank.

Almost every man in America has some digestive trouble. When men meet, the greeting usually is "Well, how's your liver?" That develops health talk. The man who has no stomach or bowel trouble is almost a curiosity. Trouble is men take no care of themselves. They eat as if they had copper stomachs and bowels of brass. By and by, overworked nature rebels. Then come headaches, nervousness, bad blood, liver and kidney troubles.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets furnish help for constipation and torpid liver, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, sour stomach, loss of appetite, indigestion, or dyspepsia, windy belchings, "heartburn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. Accept no substitute.

COLLARS AND BELTS.

The Becoming Bolero—Wide Belts of Soft Silk—Collars and Ruches.

It is predicted that the loose sack, hanging quite free from the figure, is going to be much worn later on, perhaps in the fall and winter, but predictions are not always fulfilled, and so far there have been no indications that this disagreeable garment will meet with general approbation even if fashion does decree it.

Small, short boleros are an item of the summer toilet. They do not come below the middle of the back and are left partly open there to display the corsage beneath.

Wide belts of surah, taffeta or satin merveilleux are worn. They are gathered horizontally and are closed in front or at the back under a narrow ruche or a simple heading formed by the gathering. If the belt is intended for a particular costume, it is often sewed on the bodice itself. If it is to separate, so that it may serve for many gowns, it must have a fitted lining with darts to give it the proper shape and hold it in place. The darts and seams of the lining must be boned, and the material of the belt must be cut on the full bias and drawn rather tight to avoid bulk. The folds must be tacked to the lining by invisible stitches.

STREET COSTUME.

In spite of the high temperature the neck is encircled by all sorts of high and fluffy collars and collarettes. The plain collar or the wide ribbon which takes its place is surmounted by one or two plaitings of gauze, tulle or lace, which expand and stand out from the throat, or instead of the plaitings there are four points of nainsook or mousseline de soie, trimmed with insertion and edging, like the corners of a handkerchief. Wired loops of ribbon are also used and square wired tabs of the same goods as the gown.

Today's sketch illustrates a gown of pearl gray mohair. The godet skirt is plain. The bodice is draped in front and ornamented with six paste buttons. At the left side is a fan of lace. The collarette consists of a ruche of cream mousseline de soie and two fans of lace, fastened by paste buttons. The sleeves have a frill of lace at the wrists. The belt of white satin is fastened with two paste buttons. With this costume is worn a hat of pink straw, trimmed with black plumes, roses and foliage.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DRESSMAKERS' NOTES.

Variety of Skirt Patterns—Paris Women Repudiate the Haircloth.

Silk is not only esteemed the only lining for skirts worthy the name, but is also considered the lining par excellence for bodices, although it is so susceptible to defacement that fine sateen is sometimes used instead. As silk is nonelastic, there is no risk of the corsage stretching after it has been worn, as bodices lined with cotton goods almost always do. If, however, either the bodice or the skirt has to go without a silk lining, let it be the bodice, for the lightness of a silk lined skirt is an immense relief in these days of amplitude and stiffening.

The best dressmakers use a different skirt pattern for each kind of goods, the pattern being made to suit the particular width of the material.

At last the first step toward the abolishment of the haircloth interlining has been taken. Some of the most fashionable women of Paris have had it omitted from their latest skirts, relying on the firm silk lining to give the necessary body to the skirts. Haircloth is heavy, clumsy and cold in its effect, and its disappearance will be hailed with unfeigned delight by everybody except the manufacturers of it and its substitutes. The stiffening has already entirely gone from sleeves, the diminution of the balloon having done away with the necessity for any artificial distention of the fullness. The goods are allowed to fall in their natural folds, nothing stiffer than a faille lining being employed in any case.

COSTUME OF CEREMONY.

The illustration given today shows a costume of ceremony. The godet skirt is of peche silk, having a white ground and a design of green leaves. It opens in front over a full tablier of white embroidered tulle over white satin. The bodice of peche silk opens over a chemisette matching the front of the skirt and has full basques lined with white satin, that form quilles at the side. The fichu is of white embroidered tulle and ties with short ends on the bosom. The bouffant sleeves of peche silk terminate at the elbow. The collarette is of white tulle. With this gown is worn a toque of black [illegible] trimmed

TO CORRECT A CALENDAR.

A Scheme Suggested to Correct Our Inaccurate Leap Years.

The present year is, as is well known, a leap year, says London Echo, and according to the Gregorian, correcting the Julian rule of the calendar, it will be the last leap year for eight years, or until the year 1904. The Gregorian rule, however, though a great improvement on the Julian and assimilating on the average the length of the calendar year much more nearly to that of the true year, is not perfect. By it a leap year is dropped at the end of three centuries out of four, so that any year divisible by 100 without remainder is not a leap year unless it is also divisible by 400; thus, 1900 will not be a leap year; 2000 will and 2100 will not. A more accurate rule would be to drop a leap year at the end of each successive period of 128 years; and, in accordance with this, a French astronomer, M. Auric, points out that it would be preferable to retain 1904 as a leap year and drop one in 1920, which is a multiple (fifteen times) of 128. But tinkering too frequently with established calendar rules is much to be deprecated; he suggests, therefore, to abide by the Gregorian rule until the year 3200 and drop a leap year in that year and every succeeding multiple of 3200 (6400, 9600, etc.), which would be leap years according to Gregorian rule. Strictly speaking, every interval of 128 years should contain 31 bissextile leap years, instead of the 32 which it would by the Julian rule, making every fourth year a leap year. Now, 25 times 128 amounts to 3,200, which number of years should therefore contain 25 fewer leap years than they would by the Julian rule; i. e., 775 instead of 800. The Gregorian rule puts 97 leap years in 400 years (three fewer than the Julian), and therefore 776 in 3,200 years, which is one too many. The suggestion, then, appears to be a good one, but it obviously will not be posisble for this generation (or many future generations) to decide upon its adoption. For the present we will condole with those who shall be born on the 29th of February next on their having no birthday for eight years, as there will be no other 29th of February until 1904, except in Russia, which still adheres to the Julian calendar.

Fatalities from Lightning.

Damage by lightning is unmistakably increasing, according to the director of the statistical office of Berlin. Various causes are assigned, such as the employment of electricity in various industries, the continual change of form of the earth's surface by deforestation, drainage, etc., and the impurities introduced into the atmosphere by the growing consumption of coal. Professor Von Bezold some time ago showed that for Bavaria the fires due to lightning increased from a yearly average of thirty-two in 1833 to 1843 to one hundred and thirty-two in 1880 to 1882; while the number of persons struck by lightning and those killed rose from one hundred and thirty-four and seventy-three respectively in 1855 to one hundred and eighty-six and one hundred and sixty-one in 1885. An interesting fact noted is that persons generaly struck perceive neither lightning nor thunder, but receive the impression of being enveloped by fire.—Public Opinion.

The Reckless Sultan.

A correspondent to the London Standard says of the sultan: "He is absolutely reckless as to the fate of his people and his empire. So long as he has his Circassian girls to amuse him, his pet regiments to line the roads on Fridays when he goes to the mosque, his favorite priests to pray with and his court buffoons to make merry for him; so long as his army of spies enables him to arrest and suppress the unruly and his tribe of sycophants are ready to pour honey into his willing ears; so long as twenty fat pashas run up the Yildiz hill behind his victoria and the gates clang heavily after him when he reaches the seclusion of the harem—he is satisfied."

COLD WEATHER INDEED.

Memories of a Western Winter That Broke All Records.

"Mr. President and gentlemen," began Mr. Calkins, according to a story in the Washington Evening Star, "I am not an old man, and therefore the winter I speak of is familiar to all of you—that of 1873. Five of us, with our wives, had gone to Dakota in order to obtain homesteads, and settled twenty-five miles from the then small village of Fargo, near where the city of Castleton is now situated, but then a wild, desolate prairie, with no neighbors nearer than Fargo, and bands of Indians or wolves placing us in constant danger.

"The five families, although having sod houses of their own, all lived in one house for companionship and protection. Well, at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night, Oct. 2, it turned so cold that we could see the walls moving in and the house grow smaller from the natural contraction caused by the atmosphere. It grew cold constantly until morning, and then remained as it was.

"What was the degree?" some one asked.

"To tell the truth, gentlemen, I do not know," was the response. "We had half-a-dozen thermometers, but they were of the mercury kind, and mercury froze so solid within an hour that the children used the bulbs to play marbles with all that winter, and until they thawed out the following Fourth of July. We had plenty of fuel, and wore heavy winter wraps in the house, in this way keeping from freezing. After a few weeks we became used to it. One of the ladies discovered how beautiful the icycles were that grew upon the windows. They then were [illegible] even in the house, and it was actually a source of sorrow to the ladies when the weather grew warm enough for us to go out doors and to melt the diamonds with which they had decorated themselves. That was the coldest winter I ever experienced, but I cannot tell just how cold it was, owing to having no spirit thermometer."

We are anxious to do a little good in this world and can think of no pleasanter or better way to do it than by recommending One Minute Cough Cure as a preventive of pneumonia, consumption and other serious lung troubles that follow neglected colds. C. D. Stevens.

THEIR OWN EXECUTIONERS.

Horrible Device of the Hudson Bay Indians for Capturing Wolves.

The northern Indians, particularly in the Hudson Bay region, and the Eskimos possess a fiendish ingenuity in their method of capturing game, and their way of applying it for killing wolves is horrible, says the Indianapolis Journal.

They take a flat piece of flint a foot or so long and chipped to extreme sharpness at the edge. This they fasten to a wooden stake, which they drive into the ground firmly, so as to leave the blade of flint projecting above the surface. Then they cover the blade a over with a good sized piece of fat from seal or other such animal, which freezes. Now the wolf-catching apparatus is complete, and that the person who sets the trap goes only to come back in a day or two and gather his prey without trouble.

The wolf has an insatiable appetite for blood, and of this weakness the hunter takes advantage. A little while after the trap described is set, along comes the wolf. He is hungry and licks the piece of fat, and as it is thawed by the warmth of his tongue it tastes better and better. Presently his tongue comes into contact with the sharp edge of the flint and is cut.

He tastes the blood, not knowing that it is his own, and the flavor drives him wild. Eagerly he licks and licks it, lacerating his mouth and becoming more frenzied in his desire for his own life fluid. Meanwhile the other wolves have come up and have begun to lick at the fat, cutting their own tongues and becoming in their turn wild at the taste. So presently the bait is surrounded by a pack of ravenous and crazy creatures, which soon turn upon one another and fall to devouring each other until the merciless flint is the center of a struggling mass of ferocious combatants fighting for very life.

It is like the struggle that followed the planting of the dragon's teeth of old, only that none of those who participate lives long after the fight is over, the last survivor bleeding to death. At his leisure the hunter appears on the scene and skins the dead beasts for market. The skins cost him nothing save the trouble of removing them and the value of the hunk of fat. The stake with the flint blade is ready to be set again for other victims.

CREMATION IN NEW ENGLAND.

Spray of Petroleum Produces a Temperature of 3,000 Degrees Fahrenheit.

When the stockholders of the Massachusetts Cremation Society meet to hear the reports of officers and to review the second year of the society's existence, they will find that, contrary to the experience of most cremation societies, the second year of this one has been more successful than the first, says the Boston Transcript. In most societies the second year shows a falling off in the cremations, due to a flagging interest. After that the number of cremations has shown a steady increase. The Massachusetts society began the cremation of bodies Jan. 4, 1894, and in the first year eighty-seven bodies were thus disposed of, some of them having been held for cremation from the last months of the preceding year. This year eighty-five bodies have been cremated—an actual increase in number over last year of about ten. Perhaps no more forcible argument has been made in favor of cremation as a mode of disposing of the bodies of the dead than the experience of the contractors who were engaged in the construction of the subway, who found it necessary to remove 200 or 300 bodies along the Boylston street mall, and bury most of them together in trenches. The members of the society point to this fact as one of the most striking illustrations of the advantages of cremation. The growth of cremation has been slow, but it has been sure. The first crematory in this country was erected by Dr. Julius LeMoyne, in Washington, Pa., in 1875. In the first decade only thirty-six bodies were cremated; in the second decade 264 bodies. The Boston system differs from that of most other incinerators in that a spray of superheated petroleum is used, and a heat of 3,000 degrees can be secured. Under this system expensive coffins are unnecessary, and the body is not removed from the coffin, even if it is of lead, but goes directly into the retort.

Rain for the Complexion.

Paris is held responsible for another feminine freak. "Look there," remarked a man gazing out of a hotel window on upper Broadway during last Saturday's shower; "she isn't afraid of the rain, is she?" And, sure enough, there was a woman with a few ribbons on her head walking along without an umbrella, her face fully exposed to the fresh drops that made hot eyes blink as they pattered on her finely cut features. "She's walking for her complexion, my boy," continued the speaker, "and all because one of those Parisian beauty experts we hear about has declared that rain fresh from heaven is one of the best face tonics known." If this be a fact, rainy day parades here will be more entertaining than ever.—New York Letter to Pittsburg Dispatch.

Happiness.

The true secret of happiness is giving what costs us something—what we are sacrificing something for. It makes no difference as to the value of the gift—it is giving with love in the heart which makes the true recompense.—Joseph Rennie.

Immutable Facts.

The great facts of life—duty, conscience, sorrow, sin—do not change. The same truths ever give guidance and comfort to the soul and sorrowing of the generations.
